Dedication

For my family and for my teacher
Mrs. Trumbull.

I hear...

I hear my grandma making coffee in the kitchen.

I pretend not to hear her and go to sleep.

I enjoy walking with my grandma.

I suffer that my grandma will live back to Salvador.

I laugh when I remember the fun things we do together.

I cry by missing my grandma when I need her.

I hope my grandma will come back and stay with me forever.

I decide to do things that my grandma wants and I'll be happy of the things she wants.

I believe that one day we be together having fun everyday.

I am a grandson, a son, a friend, a student, I am Eric.

I am yours.

About the author

Hello, I'm Eric Castro I was born in Virginia, Washington D.C. in 1997 August, 4. I am 9 years old and almost to get 10 years old. I like to read fiction, nonfiction and science books. First my stories and my writing where bad then its getting better. Once I make a scary story I called it The spooky story the beginning the series. I won this year a prize in the rodeo art contest for the first time. I started writing my story in 4th grade and I am in 4 grade.
